

Ella Mae Wroe

February 13, 1928 - December 27, 2014

Ella Mae Wroe, 86, died Dec. 27, 2014 in Vancouver, Washington. She was born Feb. 13, 1928 in North Plains, Oregon to Alfred and Agnes Nelson. She attended Shady Brook Grade School and Hillsboro High School. Ella Mae married Henry Paul Morissette in 1945 and made their home on Dixie Mountain. They had two children, Louis and Evelyn. Henry died in 1959.

Ella Mae moved to West Union where she lived for over 50 years. In 1963 she married Virgil Wroe and he died in 1992.

Ella Mae retired from Rodgers Organ Company. She enjoyed gardening, dancing and fishing. She was a member of Washington County Grange.

Ella Mae is survived by her son, Louis and wife, Valorie of Vancouver, Washington, step-son Paul Wroe and wife Jude of Alaska, step-daughter Rosalie Napoleon and husband Nappy of Hawaii, two sisters, Betty Comstock of Banks, Oregon and Donna Verhoef and husband John of Amboy, Washington. She also had one grandson, three great grandsons and one great granddaughter.

Ella is preceded in death by daughter Evelyn and two grandsons.

Comments

“

April 01 at 02:14 PM

“

watermelon lover When someone tells me they love watermelon, I always share the day I saw grandma cut a big watermelon in half and scoop out one side clean.....take a 10 minute break then scoop out the other half.....that's a watermelon lover!! And, she did this of course while wearing her watermelon necklace. But grandma was much more than someone who loved this big fruit. She loved fishing, puzzles, working hard in the garden, and her dancing. I wish I could have seen her dance on Pumpkin Ridge, but I'm so glad that whenever we did talk, she would talk about her Saturday night gang and all the fun they had. I'm very appreciative of all her friends and family that were close to grandma ever since grandpa died. Grandpa loved her very much and his whisker kisses are classic. I know she must have been lonely at times on that little farm, but she never seemed to say so. Love you grandma and thanks for loving me, Your grandson Zorre' (raised in Hawaii and living in Louisville, Kentucky)

Zorre' - January 03, 2015 at 12:00 AM